THE TOWN RECORD

By MONTE DAYTON

A couple of Daly City canines really acted like dogs this week as they took healthy nips out of the town's citizenry.

ELAINE GAGGERO, 13, daughter of his honor ANTHONY J., was bitten on the right thigh Monday by a small rust-colored creature tied to a truck at the construction site of the new Colma school.

Friday a boxer-shephard mixture, owned by MRS. MARY BIAGINI, 4352 18th street, San Francisco, leaped out on the sidewalk on Hanover street and attempted to take a chunk out of EARL MULLEN, No. 167 of that street. The dog caught Mullen going away and did some small damage to the posterior.

Both the dogs and the people were given the usual treatment and, the people, at least, are presumed to be O.K.

A most obliging chap was the pilot on the ship carrying STANFORD HANNAH, principal and superintendent of the Jefferson Union high school district, and LYAL INGERSOLL, trustee, to their eastern destination in their recent trek to national educational conferences.

Ingersoll was anxious to get some good photos while flying over the Grand Canyon, but the view wasn't quite right. "I wish they could turn this thing around for a minute," he said. No sooner than the words were spoken the pilot whipped the plane around and headed back the other way for a short distance and the trustee got his pictures.

City Clerk B. C. ROSS has seen many city councils come and go, and sometimes, evidently, it's hard to keep track of who's who in current city government.

While reading the council roll call Tuesday night he called off the name of FRED BERTETTA, who has been "absent" from the council meetings for quite some time now.

The Local LIONS are awaiting with bated breath the outcome of an operation on their brother clubman TILIO TIMOSSI. He was transferred from Mills memorial hospital to Stanford hospital yesterday for an operation to remove his lung.

DICK CRANE, another Lion, after a short infirmity, is back in the fold again feeling much better.

School was never like this: Kids at Jefferson high school can cut out from their classes Wednesday afternoon to make a few bucks. All the hopeful caddies need is a note from home saying they may leave school on Wednesday afternoons . . . and a record that shows satisfactory school work. Well, maybe it's not worth it if they have to go to all that trouble.

Speaking of Jefferson high, the most original spelling of the school's name came out in a recent issue of a daily paper. According to the story (a schedule for frosh-soph baseball) Menlo-Atherton is to meet JJeJfJfeJrson May 7. The yell-leaders may strike if this spelling achieves any popular degree of use.

Employees at the city hall have been put to the acid test lately. While AUGUST CONCI, gardener, spreads a profuse layer of pungent fertilizer over the grass, painters inside the building slap reeking concoctions over the walls.

The advantages of leaving the windows open is debatable, but it does make for a unique mixture.

Series Of Burglaries Nets Thieves Nearly $1000 In Loot Here

Three burglaries here during the week netted thieves loot valued at nearly $1000.

Most recent victim was Pat Mahoney, 2067 42nd avenue, San Francisco, professional at the Lake Merced Gold and Country Club, who lost $85 worth of golf clubs sometime between 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday.

The culprits broke out two panes in the window at the club with a coke bottle and without even entering the premises, reached through and pilfered four of Mahoney's clubs, according to Inspector August Benassini.

Another burglary occurred at the Fred Martinelli residence, 472 Hanover street, while the family was away visiting friends over the weekend.

Thieves broke the glass panel next to the handle on the front door and entered the house, emptying the contents of all the drawers on the floor, and completely ransacking the closets and the remainder of the house.

They took two ladies' watches, a man's watch and assorted other jewelry valued in all at $375.

Apparently the thieves entered the home between 9:45 a.m. Sunday and 6:45 p.m. Monday, the time when the family was away.

Monday the residence of Herbert L. Miller, 313 Niantic avenue, was completely ransacked and two radios, a camera and two watches valued at $400 were taken.

The burglars means of entry was unknown. Miller returned to his home at 6:45 p.m., after being gone since 7:30 a.m., to find all the drawers in the house had been gone through and their contents strewn over the floor. The beds and linen closet were also ransacked.

LIONS ART SHOW STARTS TODAY AT 1 P.M. IN CENTER; WILL FEATURE 1000 ENTRIES

The three-day Lions art contest, which features entries from more than 1000 Daly City elementary and high school children, begins this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the community center.

On display will be work in water color, drawing, colored chalk, handicraft, photography and oil painting.

The Lions club will offer a total of 54 prizes for the best entries in each division. Competition will be in three groups — grades one through eight, and high school.

The event will continue through 6 p.m. Sunday. Work will be on display until 10 p.m. tonight, from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. tomorrow, and will open again at 10 a.m. on Sunday, chairman Elio Fontana announced.

All entries are solely the work of the students, Fontana said.

The school children have been preparing their entries for more than a month now.

Drive For Red Cross Funds Starts Sunday

The Red Cross drive will get underway in Daly City Sunday with a goal of $2321 to be sought.

Over-all chairman for Daly City is Dan Andersen, city administrator. He has named Mrs. Alice Van Over as chairman for Daly City business and residential contributions.

Westlake chairman is Arthur Colvin.

Mrs. Margaret Pauline Brown will act as chairman for the Colma area, while Mrs. Alan Mori will assist her as co-chairman. Quota set for Colma is $2190.

$93,000,000 For Nation

National goal for the drive has been set at $93,000,000, and a goal of $135,000 "plus" has been set for San Mateo county.

The $8,000,000 increase nationally over last year and the "plus" added locally is because of the additional blood collection needed for processing into gamma globulin, a blood derivative used in fighting polio paralysis. This assignment has been given Red Cross by the government because of the organization's existing blood collection facilities.

"Support Is Vital"

"Public support of the Red Cross this year is vital," said Paul Bacon, campaign fund chairman. Its responsibilities are greater than at any time since World War II. "Locally," Bacon pointed out, "Red Cross must increase its blood collection from county residents by 60%. We must be ready to assist disaster victims. Last year your National Red Cross served in 289 domestic disasters, assisting 32,000 families at a cost of over $19,000,000. Our chapter record is an outstanding one, too," he said. Home service last year processed 4802 cases, mostly servicemen, veterans and their families. Nursing services trained 968. Water safety enrolled over 7000.

Emergency Units

First aid issued 921 Red Cross certificates and maintains 5 mobile emergency units. There are 62 nurses aides on call and 33 trained canteen workers. Gray Lady service had an average of over 200 volunteers per month serving in veterans' hospitals. Motor service drove a total of 52,729 miles in the service of others. Production workers completed an imposing total of 4,527 articles, including sweaters, bed sox, layettes, etc. A total of 58,410 recorded hours were spent last year by volunteers serv-

REC COMMISSION PLANS EASTER EGG HUNT, FESTIVAL

The recreation commission met Tuesday night to discuss preliminary plans for the spring festival and to plan for the anual Easter egg hunt.

The commission was informed that the Chamber of Commerce has established a committee to formulate possible plans for the festival. The chamber is scheduled to work in conjunction with the recreation department in sponsoring the event.

A meeting of representatives from all PTAs in the area, the Daly City Women's club, OLPH Mothers club, Girl Scouts and recreation department will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers to make

Traffic Check Held; 84 Notices Are Given

A total of 938 vehicles were stopped in a check of northbound traffic held Friday night at Mission street in front of the community center.

One driver was cited for drunken driving while the following notices for defects were given: faulty lights, 63; mechanical defects, 9; invalid drivers' licenses, 11.

The block was conducted by Officers Henry Sunderman and Les Bastedo, aided by ten members of the auxiliary police forces.

Sundermann explained that the mechanical defect notices do not necessitate appearance in court or payment of fine, but only correction of the defection.

He said upon correction, the notices may be endorsed by any member of the police force.

Planners To Hear Stuart Plea Again

The status of property at the end of Bepler street owned by Dale Stuart will again come before Daly City's planning commission at their Tuesday night meeting.

Stuart, whose property was recently rezoned from single residential dwellings to multiple dwellings, at his request, now seeks to have the property changed to single dwelling again, according to the commission.

He also wishes to "dedicate" the remainder of his property to the city for a park. Sanford Vickers, secretary of the commission, said that whether this meant he wished to donate the property to the city or sell it was not known.

The commission will also hear the application of Frank Martorano, who seeks to have property between East Cavour and East Moltke, on lot 9, block 22, re-zoned from single-dwelling to light commercial property.

POLIO STRIKES TWICE HERE DURING JANUARY

Two cases of polio were reported in Daly City for the month of January, according to the morbidity report issued by the county health office.

This was the highest number of cases reported for any city in San Mateo county for the month period.

Total cases in the county amounted to seven.

One case each of chicken pox and scarlet fever were also recorded for Daly City during January.

Hobbyists Without Home Appeal To Daly City Fathers

It was a rare occasion Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the city council as the audience outnumbered the city officials seated in the executive podium.

Some 20 enthusiastic model airplane pilots squared off against the withered forces of the city rulers—three councilmen (Dennis and Green were absent), B. C. Ross, city clerk, Edwin Smith, city engineer, and Frank Blum, city attorney. (City Administrator Dan Andersen is attending a conference in Monterey).

But after the airplane representatives had stated their case the matter was resolved with complete amenity on all sides.

The model airplane flyers, who have been enjoying their hobby at Marchbanks park, had been served notice by the recreation department that they would no longer be able to use the park. Reason: the noise of the miniature lighter-than-aircraft annoyed those living near the park.

As Pat Harris stated it, "We're lost without a flying field."

The council agreed and said since no official complaints of the noise had yet been voiced, they would see fit to let the hobbyists continue using the park.

Ed Duncan, another representative of the flyers, then spoke. "But, we don't want to be a nuisance. We suggest that a sign be posted making it illegal to fly the planes before 10 a.m."

The council agreed again.

Everyone having had his say, except the complainants, who haven't been heard from officially yet, the council chambers became quiet, the meeting was adjourned, and the model airplane enthusiasts still have use of the facilities at Marchbanks Park.

School Officials Return From Trip

Stanford Hannah, superintendent of the Jefferson high school district, and Lyal Ingersoll, trustee, returned Monday from their trip to the east.

Hannah attended the national conference of school administrators in Atlantic City, while Ingersoll took part in the national school trustees' meeting, also in Atlantic City.

During their jaunt they also visited Washington, D. C., and met Congressman Arthur Younger, attended both houses of congress in session and visited the supreme court.

Hananh also attended a conference held in the United Nations building, sponsored by New York university. Speakers representing countries throughout the world discussed various educational programs, he said.

Hannah said the conferences were "very much worthwhile," and brought forth many new ideas in education.

THREE CANDIDATES IN RACE FOR COMMISSION POST IN BROADMOOR

Filing for the post of Broadmoor police commissioner closed Wednesday noon with three applicants turning in their papers.

Incumbent commissioner Armando Ferraris of Colma filed Saturday to run again for the position. The other two candidates are Joe Belli, 1547 Sweetwood drive, and Stephen O'Brien, 880 Beechwood drive.

Date for the election is April 6.

PG&E Announces Plans For Big D. C. Sub-Station

Mrs. Rodgers Dies From Bullet Wounds

The 46-year-old divorcee who was shot twice by her husband last week in the Westlake Lounge here died Sunday in Junipero Serra hospital of complications.

Helen M. Rodgers, wounded by real estate broker William J. Rodgers, 58, of 840 El Camino Real, Millbrae, who then killed himself, was semiconscious for several days and had been interviewed by Police Lieutenant Roy Beecher, who said that she seemed in fair condition, although lapsed into periods of delirium.

The police sought to discover a few more facts concerning the motive in the shooting, Beecher said.

During the interview Mrs. Rodgers kept referring to the beating her husband had given her, Beecher said. Apparently she thought she had been beaten by her husband. She never knew that her estranged husband was dead.

Rodgers and his wife had been seperated for a year and Mrs. Rodgers, who lived here at 41 Park Plaza, won an interlocutory decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty last November 28 in San Francisco.

The bullets fired by Rodgers pierced Mrs. Rodgers' lung and arm.

Following the interview Friday her condition was reported as good, but she took a sudden turn for the worse Saturday night and died Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

PLANT WILL BRING ESTIMATED $5000 TO CITY IN TAXES

If the Abbey Homestead area is annexed to Daly City at the March 16 public hearing, PG&E plans to proceed immediately, pending city approval, with construction of an $1,080,00 substation, Joseph Rohl, local manager, said today.

Site for the station, located between Orange, Market and Chester streets, is included in the Abbey Homestead area. Property owners there seek to have the section annexed to Daly City.

The plant would bring annual tax revenue to the city estimated in excess of $5000, Rohl said.

The company has been stymied during past months in their effort to go ahead with the station because the county planning commission would not approve use of the land for utility purposes.

However, Rohl said, "We anticipate a favorable response," by

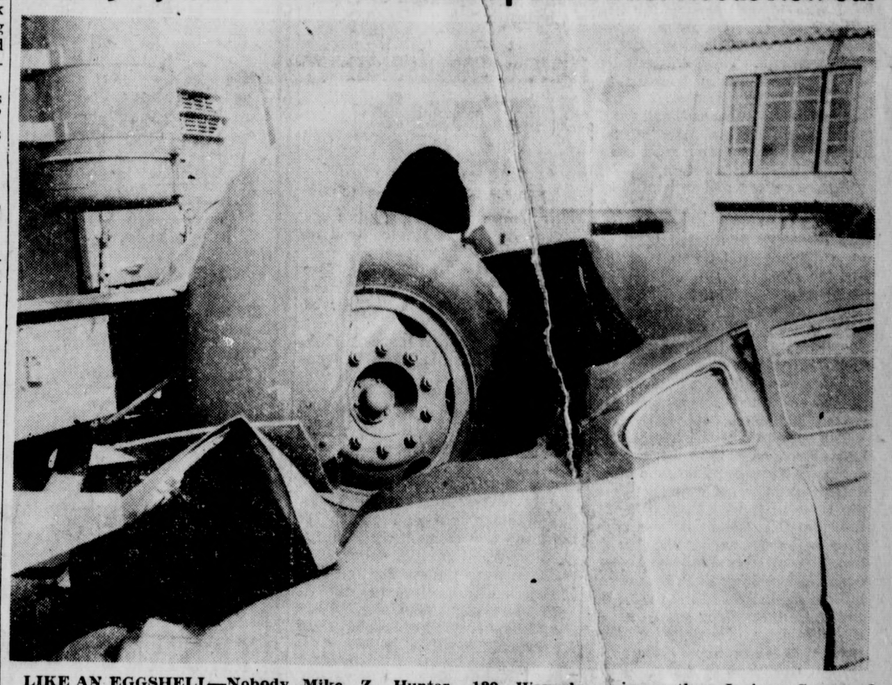
Nobody Injured In Truck-Car Mishap But Owner Needs New Car



LIKE AN EGGSHELL—Nobody was hurt but the auto plainly shows visible signs of damage in this mishap which occurred at noon Friday on Junipero Serra and Alemany. The tractor, driven by Mike Z. Hunter, 139 Waverly street, Sunnyvale, was turning off Junipero Serra on to Alemany, when it brushed a vehicle driven by James V. Gleason Jr., 549 14th avenue, San Francisco, who was going south on Junipero Serra and turned left to Alemany. In order to avoid a serious collision with Gleason, the truck driver ran into parked car shown here, dragging it nearly 200 feet.

Taxpayers Form Association

Formation of a home-owners group to fight high property taxes in the Daly City area got into high gear Tuesday night.

Nearly 70 property owners gathered at 460 Santa Barbara avenue to hear Tom Callan, supervisor, and Charles Garry, attorney, explain the tax set-up and answer questions.

Tuesday night's gathering was the second of its kind in the past two weeks. The first meeting of the taxpayers' group was held February 11, with 50 persons in attendance.

The homeowners plan to draw up a petition stating the purposes of the group—to lower taxes. During the next meeting, March 4, at 8 p.m. at the same address, the petitions will be distributed among those present, who will canvass the Daly City area to seek new members for the organization.

At Tuesday's meet the group named Dorothy Dugan as vice chairman and Mrs. Muriel Smith as treasurer.

Chairman of the association is Sam Alba, while Helen Mason is secretary.

During the meeting Callan explained that the recent re-assessment of property was ordered by the state board of equalization.

Garry informed the group of their rights as taxpayers to form an organization protecting their liberties as American citizens.

Mrs. Mason said that at next week's meeting the home owners will decide what definite action is to be taken.

YOUR NEIGHBORS AND MINE

By B. Brusl

There have been several Daly City boys who have come home in the past week. Mr. and Mrs. E. Stone of Theta avenue were the first to welcome their son, Pfc. Robert E. Stone, who came home after fourteen months overseas, the majority of it having been spent in Korea with the seventh infantry division. Pfc. Robert Stone wears the combat infantryman's badge as well as other decorations.

There was celebration in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Beecher of Santa Barbara avenue last week. Their son, William A. Beecher Jr., who has completed his training at San Diego naval training station, came home for the first time since last November. He will be welcomed home on a well earned leave by his many friends as well as his family.

Town Seems Same

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Duffy of Los Banos avenue welcomed their son Rodney home after two years in Pearl Harbor. Rod, who is known to all Jeffersonites as the brother of the glamorous Bettie Duffy, says the old town seems the same to him except that most of the old gang are gone. Welcome home Rod!

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller (the erstwhile Shirley Combs of Los Banos avenue) have moved into their new home on Los Olivos avenue. Bob spent four years in the Navy and is now employed at Huner's Point naval yard. We wish much happiness to Shirley and Bob in their new home.

Mumps Finally Hit

Missed around Jefferson high for his sunny smile and winning ways is Louis Cooper who forgot to have the mumps when he was a little boy. From last reports, Louie is doing fine and should be back among his many friends soon.

Seems like there "just ain't no justice." The fire laddies have been taking it on the chin. For the last three weeks in a row the fire siren has blown on a Saturday morning. Each week it gets earlier, this last Saturday being at 4 a.m. Please neighbors, let's co-operate and have our fires after the boys get up.

The sympathies of "Your Neighbors and Mine" are extended this week to Mrs. Margaret Harper and her family. Samuel Lacey Harper, one of the old-time residents and pioneers of Daly City, passed away Thursday of last week. The Harpers have lived in Daly City for over thirty-five years and their many friends are saddened by the passing of Mr. Harper.

Adds To Budget

Many red faces and sounds of displeasure have been noted this week on Knowles avenue. Seems like the police department has made one side of Knowles avenue a no-parking zone. No fault of the "boys in blue" as there are signs and the red paint is very visible. We admit there isn't much space to park while shopping but it only adds to the weekly budget to park in a red zone.

The students of Jefferson high are all in a dither. The plans for their "Spring Dance" are coming along fine. So far the date has been set for March 20 and the latest word is informal. More about this as further events occur.

An enjoyable evening of cards was had by all who attended the whist Monday evening given by the Hillcrest circle No. 143, U.A.O.D. This was to be expected as the chairlady was Mrs. Victorine Lombard who is well known for her whist parties. The prizes were good, the players friendly and the whist well run. These affairs take place on the fourth Monday of each month, so come on all you whist players, come out and meet "Your Neighbors and Mine" at the Masonic hall and have a good time.

Reporter Wonders

This reporter wonders why there could not be a police officer assigned to the corner of Santa Barbara and Knowles avenue at 5 p.m. when the last session of school let out. The bus lets the children off in front of the Woodrow Wilson school and they have to cross the busy intersection just when the traffic really starts to get heavy. Since Knowles avenue was made practically a highway, the danger to your children and mine has been greatly increased. Just wondering.

The residents of the Los Banos-Los Olivos area have been wondering if there could be something done about the old cars that people leave in the lot that joins the two streets. We know the children will miss having the fun of breaking all the windows in the cars and wrecking them in general but we do feel that they should be towed to a wrecking yard. After all, this type of enterprise is not add to the scenery at all.

PG&E Announces Plans For Big Sub-Station Here

Daly City officials.

The new station will double the capacity of the present facilities, Rohl said.

It will handle all of Daly City and Colma and fringe areas of San Francisco for a short time, he added.

The site encompasses 4 8/10 acres of land. The company plans to landscape the area with lawn and shrubbery.

A ten foot fence will also be built around the power equipment, he said.

Four transformers will have a capacity of 75,000 horsepower. The present station H plant that now supplies the area, located at Visitacion and Bayshore, has a capacity of 125,000 horsepower.

The station should be able to meet anticipated needs here for the next five years, Rohl pointed out.

He said the need of the new plant here is urgent in the face of rapidly rising population, and indicated that the new station must be in operation by November 15 to handle the load expected.

Breakdown of equipment costs for the plant is as follows: four transformers, $335,00; 150,00 KVA regulator, $60,000; circuit breaker switches and supporting structures, $246,800; miscellaneous equipment, $90,000.

plans for the Easter egg hunt, according to James Mason, head of the recreation department.

Mason spoke briefly of the "fine work" being done by Harry Redick, new playground director at Lincoln.

A suggestion that a teen-age club, with headquarters at the community center, be established was also considered.

Reports were given on attendance at adult and elementary basketball league contests.

According to Mason, attendance at the adult play jumped to 80 last week, while approximately 100 either participated in or watched the elementary contests each week.

Attendance figures for the four playgrounds during the period Feb. 3 showed: Westlake, 1528; Marchbanks, 2246; Lincoln, 1807; Edgewood, 714, Total: 6295.

Elementary basketball attendance was 279, while adult basketball attendance for the same period was 258. Participation in folk dancing was 71.

RIDGELY CUMMINGS REPORTS:

...from HOLLYWOOD

THEATRICAL UPSURGE IN HOLLYWOOD

Perhaps because of the holdback in movie production while the studios are converting to three-D, Hollywood and environs is currently enjoying an upsurge in theatrical activity. New legitimate theatres are opening up their petals like daisies after a spring rain and the old ones are flexing their dramatic muscles and exhibiting fresh energy.

Katherine Cornell, who is in town with a touring version of Somerset Maugam's "Constant Wife," says in an interview with the Los Angeles Times that television is responsible. According to her, people sitting at home get a tantalizing taste of drama sandwiched between commercials. Having developed the appetite, they are ready to escape from their living rooms and support worthy stage productions.

A Partial Explanation

Miss Cornell's explanation is at best a partial one but the fact remains that the phenomenon exists. Although many of the new theatres open their doors in a burst of hopeful publicity releases and close them silently a few weeks or months later, after the backers have lost all they can afford, the trend persists.

Among the notable new ones, Henry Duffy has converted the Carthay Circle from a movie palace to stage presentations. At the moment he is offering Billie Burke in "Life With Mother" after a long and successful run with Otto Kreuger in "Affairs of State."

Maurice Schwart of the New York Art Theatre has leased the Century here and announces an ambitious program of classics, probably starting with Ibsen's "Enemy of the People."

Hybrid Cross

Another New Yorker, a dancer named Miriam Schiller, has taken over the old Gateway Theatre halfway between Hollywood and downtown L.A., has secured a beer license, and is running something she calls Cabaret Concert. This is a cross between a theatre, a restaurant and a night club, featuring modern dance, folk music, one act skits and entertainment of an experimental and highly sophisticated sort. The night I was there two young people did a fine job with the dance scene from Christopher Fry's "Ring Around the Moon."

A youngish school teacher named Judith Littlefield has sunk her life savings in a long-term lease on a former night club which she has redecorated and named the Arena Theatre. There recently she starred a friend of mine, Vivian Brown, as Mrs. Alving in Ibsen's "Ghosts." Currently she is showing a Strindberg play with the unlikely name: "There Are Crimes and Crimes."

Bugs in Production

At the Las Palmas Theatre, in the heart of Hollywood, Eugenie Leontovich recently put on a dramatization of Thomas Wolfe's "The Web and the Rock." This was more praiseworthy for its good intentions than its artistic quality and lasted only a few weeks, after which the theatre was dark until the other night when there was a dress rehearsal of Clifford Odet's "The Big Knife." I didn't catch this, being otherwise engaged, but apparently there were bugs in the production for the formal opening is still delayed.

A few weeks ago I was sent on a journey to the suburbs to review the opening of a new theatre in Cheviot Hills, converted with loving care from a pool hall into the Rancho Playhouse by the volunteer labors of the Cheviot Hills Community Players. Their opening vehicle was "Guest in the House," a pretty fair psychological thriller.

On another night my critical duties took me to Glendale to appraise "Personal Appearance" as put on by the Hide-Away Theatre in that city. It was unpretentious but amusing and serves as another indication of the intense activity going on here.

A Severe Strain

Yet another assignment put a severe strain on a friendship when the paper sent me to review "The Pretender," an original play by William Harlow, at the Hollywood Playhouse. I was forced to pan it but softened the blow by remarking that most playwrights have one or two bad plays in their system and if they never see these produced the odds are loaded that they may not muster up the courage and patience to plug ahead and write the good one. Bill Harlow, with whom I became acquainted when I was putting on a play last fall, still has "The Pretender" on the boards and is going ahead with the writing of another one.

An Original Play

Another friend, George Patrick Graham, who played a prominent part in the dramatization of Franz Kafka's "Trial" at the Pasadena Playhouse, is currently rehearsing in an original play dealing with Russia, to be presented soon at Plummer Park. This one is unimaginatively titled "The Lash Changes Hands" and that's all I know about it except that it should be a competent production since Graham is a good actor. He is scheduled to give a reading of the accused K's soliloquy from "The Trial" at a one-night brotherhood observance for which I have unintentionally managed to become the unpaid promotor.

But the best thing on the local scene that I have witnessed recently is Robert E. Sherwood's "The Road to Rome." When Sherwood wrote his play he combined all the factors needful for the creation of a lasting masterpiece except the highly essential one of clear-cut psychological motivation. His drama has importance of theme, beauty of language, dignity of concept, sparkling humor, solid characterization and most any other flattering quality that comes to mind except logic.

Convincing Action

As presented by Preston Sturges at his Sunset Strip theatre restaurant, the action is so convincing that it is only later one wonders why Hannibal decided to quit when he was winning and why Amytis went back to her stodgy husband.

What I don't know about Roman history would fill Gibbon's "Decline and Fall." I had heard about Hannibal marching his elephants and army over the Alps but for some reason it never occurred to me to inquire what happened to him after he reached his destination. From three friends connected with the play, Bill Bagdad, Carolyn Jones and Aaron Spelling, I learned that this is apparently a blank page in history and nobody else knows either.

Fire At Hilltop Lodge Does An Estimated $500 Damage To Building

A pre-dawn fire at the Hilltop Lodge, 22 Hillcrest drive, Saturday did an estimated damage of $500 to the establishment.

Firemen battled almost an hour before extinguishing the fire, which apparently smoldered for more than two hours before it was discovered by a janitor when he came to clean the establishment shortly before 4 a.m.

The janitor, Floyd Warnock, 26 Parma street, called firemen when he discovered the place filled with smoke.

Firemen said the blaze was confined to a partition between rest rooms and a dance hall. They were forced to rip away the partition to reach the source of the flames.

Burglars Filch Camera From Melody Studio

Thieves entered the Melody Studio, 6027 Mission street, sometime Tuesday night or Wednesday morning and made off with a Rolliflex camera belonging to Mrs. Katherine Olsen, a solicitor for the studio.

Mrs. Olsen said she entered the studio Wednesday morning and found the camera gone. Apparently the burglars entered through the bathroom window, she said.

12-Mile Club, Colma Win In Rec League Basketball Play

The 12 mile athletic club routed Ralph's Cleaners last week, 59 to 34, in the third week of play in Daly City adult basketball league.

Wally Fitzgerald led scoring for the winners with 20 points, while G. Danulez hit 14 for the Cleaners' squad.

In a close-fought contest Colma downed Hoyt's Water Heaters in last week's play, 25 to 22.

Leading the Heater players was Dick Sears with 14 markers.

The Results Might Be Good

Formation of a home owners organization in Daly City seems to be the first logical step in battling the inequitable property taxation here.

A group of some 70 local residents have formed an association with the avowed purpose of lowering the taxes here.

If they proceed correctly, it is undeniable that they will discover methods of assessment to be way off color.

And even if their findings are brushed off by county officials, at least they'll have the dubious pleasure of knowing taxes shouldn't be as high as they are.

It'll take a lot of digging and the backing of many home owners, but the results could prove very worthwhile financially.

A Heritage That Persists

This week in Daly City, as throughout the land, has marked the observance of Brotherhood week.

The heritage of equality has persisted in this country for 164 years, being a basic tenet of the constitution.

Though there be many instances where bigotry and prejudice prevail, nevertheless this country looks on these instances as a negative view—something to be done away with.

This the observance of Brotherhood week.

At this time when the ideals of most of the world are strained, the American ideal stands out clear as a light to be guided by.

This week has been set aside to call our attention to the preservation and eventual fulfillment of this ideal.

By no means do we, in this country, observe 100 per cent the equality of our fellow man.

But the majority of the people, guided by the original American dream, do seek to see a universal equality.

The communists scorn our pride in the equality of the individual. They say that democracy is a failure and that man is judged here by his color and the size of his pocketbook.

Thus in this week nearly closed, the people of this country have tried to re-stimulate the thought of unity and brotherhood.

Not because we set aside one particular segment of the year to respect one another, but because equality is such an important part of our goal that it is necessary to re-dedicate ourselves to the cause at regular intervals.

Cost-Cutting And Calamity

The state legislature, in the main a horde of ignoramuses who would have the remainder of the state be the same have now set out to eliminate the faults from the California education code in an effort to cut costs and do away with frills in the state's program.

As is true in many cases of senatorial zeal, their idea is right but their methods of attaining the idea could prove disastrous.

Currently before the session of the legislature for consideration is Senate Bill 1922.

In its exuberance to pare taxes and remedy the ills of adult education, this bill virtually would cripple adult education in San Mateo county and the San Francisco bay area.

For instance, in defining the duty of an adult education program, and in defining "adults" who may participate in it, the bill lays itself open to logical interpretations that might eliminate evening junior colleges, confine curricula to elementary levels or to vocational training and bar high school graduates for any adult education.

Another preposterous provision of the bill would eliminate classes in health and homemaking, in first aid and in parenthood, in physical education, and specifically, in civilian defense.

The bill also insists that all adult education classes be held in school buildings. This would necessarily do away with training in any on-the-job field, in churches, at hospitals, etc.

It would shut off adult education for many who are physically handicapped and unable to travel to school buildings.

Authorities have also noted many other faults, some technical, in this colossal absurdity of legislation.

We must avow that the costs of the state's adult education program are extravagant, but we urge a little reflection in the matter of trimming costs.

All costs whatsoever, could be done away with by eliminating adult education, but that, Senators, isn't the answer.

To Make The Motorists Shudder

Among the 5,000 or more bills which have gone into the legislative hopper in Sacramento are more than a few which, if passed, would have far-reaching effect on motorists and their driving habits.

One measure calls for mechanical devices which would restrict the speed of cars and trucks to 60 miles an hour. Another would cut the state speed limit from 55 to 50 miles an hour.

Two bills propose to allow highway patrolmen to use radar in determining the speed of motor vehicles. A mandatory car inspection every six months is called for under one proposal and every year under another. Permanent revocation of a driver's license on his third conviction for drunk driving is a further idea the lawmakers must pass on.

Trucks, with certain exceptions, would be banned from the highways between 9 a.m. and 12 midnight on legal holidays and between 1 p.m. Saturdays and 12 midnight Sundays under one measure.

A billion-dollar highway bond issue to be financed with a 1½ cen gas tax boost, a $3½ billion loan from the federal government, a $700 million bond issue to be paid out of a one-cent gas tax increase—these are some of the proposals on our roads problem.

The lawmakers have lots of ideas and it takes a pretty fast motorist—fast thinking, that is—to keep up with them.

FIRE FIGHTERS' FACTS

By Mel Hanson
Fire Prevention Bureau

The heart fund drive now being conducted by the Daly City fire department is still going strong. Eighteen organizations in Daly City invited members of the fire department to present a talk and show a motion picture to its members on heart disease. The talk and picture was well received.

Here is an article that we were very interested in and wish to pass along: This story is a prelude of the spectacular wreck of a runaway passenger train in Washington's union station on January 15, 1953.

Apparently it's not news when the top command of a fire department and an entire battalion of fire fighters get blown up and terribly injured in an explosion and fire.

At least that was the apparent view of most newspapers outside of Washington, D. C. When the same group of fire officers and fire fighters who only four hours before had conducted the rescue operations following the spectacular wreck of a runaway passenger train in Washington's union station on January 15 were caught in a terrific explosion in the basement of a tire and battery store just a few blocks away. The explosion in the reinforced concrete building was so violent that only superintendent of machinery William Boswell and three pumper operators were able to pick themselves up and summon aid via a third alarm.

Chief of Department Millard H. Sutton, Acting Deputy Chief Carl P. Poole and Battalion Chief A. M. Grunwell were all horribly injured and are in critical condition. Members of engine companies 8, 10, 18, truck Co. 7, and rescue companies 1 and 2 were incapacitated. City Fire Marshal Raymond C. Roberts and two members of his staff were injured.

With both rescue companies knocked out mutual aid came into play with with rescue companies and ambulances responding from nearby Maryland and Virginia fire departments plus ambulances available from local hospitals which were busy caring for patients brought in from the train wreck.

While the exact details of the explosion which wrecked the tire and battery store are not available, it is known that fire fighters believed that they had the one alarm "working fire" in the basement under control after a half hour battle, and were advancing in the basement when the blast occurred, possibly due to gas. The top brass which had been at the railroad wreck had responded when Chief Grunwell reported an "all hands" and requested the rescue companies to assist in fighting the cellar fire.

While investigations are under way, including one by the members of the National Fire Protection association, committee on explosion venting, it appears that the explosion was not a "back draft." Rather the blast appears to have had a bomb-like effect caused by the confinement of blast waves or pressure by the concrete structure.

One report mentions a broken gas pipe but does not indicate whether this might have been broken before or during the blast.

This explosion points to several important lessons for fire fighters.

1. There can be great danger from fires in basements of fire resistive structures where smoke and explosion venting is limited.

2. The period of danger may come rather late in the fire after atmospheric inversion takes place.

3. Great care must be taken to protect fire department personnel in such cases.

4. Attempt should be made to have top command post in a reasonably secure area and where possible there should be a "tactical reserve" of one or more fire companies standing by and not actively engaged in fire fighting. In other words, all available units on the fire ground should not be committed to places of danger.

5. Automatic sprinkler protection should be required by law in all hazardous basement areas regardless of type of construction.

6. Fires in fire resistive buildings often are among the most difficult to ventilate safely.

MAKING BETTER TIRES

If you rode the railroad crossties from Portland to Portland with your automobile, you would merely be duplicating one of the unusual tests developed by the tire industry to insure greater strength and wearing qualities in today's tires, according to the National Automobile Club.

For this carcass test, there is used instead of the crossties a large flat-faced wheel with three cleats, which beat against a tire running on an axle. The tire is tested under a load greater than when an automobile is operating under normal conditions.

The speed is thrity-five miles per hour, the distance, until failure. Tests are conducted in a room with a constant temperature of ninety degrees so the tire does not have an opportunity to cool. The test is valuable because it shows a tire's weakest parts, and quickly points out any defects in design or construction.

Reader Lauds THE RECORD For Editorial On Callan And Situation In North County

Dear Sir:

I would like to compliment you vigorously for your excellent editorial concerning our "fighting" Tom Callan.

We citizens of the northernmost section of the county are very fortunate to have, in Thomas J. Callan, representation which is intelligent and integrated with intestinal fortitude.

Our local problems should be paramount in the mind of the 1st district supervisor but only wherein the whole of the county is better served by such interests. This should also hold true for the other districts and their representatives.

Tom Callan has proved by his requests, made to the board, that he is interested in the welfare of the whole county.

His requests were very logical for a servant of the people to make on entering a new field of responsibility. He was anxious to be briefed on the problems before the board and also to make a conducted tour of the county. Merely because these have not been the customary practices in the past does not take away one iota of their merit.

If the lower end of San Mateo county persists in the course of action they are now following they can only expect trouble.

The odds are heavy against Tom so let's all get behind our new supervisor to enable him to do a good job — not too far behind though.

Yours respectfully,
Owen D. English

AROUND THE AREA

Patrolman Killed

A 64-year-old special patrolman was killed instantly Saturday morning when he apparently drove his firm's car into the path of a northbound Southern Pacific commuter train at Harbor boulevard grade crossing in Belmont.

William B. Hountis, employed by the Charles private patrol service in San Carlos, was just beginning his regular patrol duty with his service, when the fatal accident occurred.

The sedan, owned by the patrol service, was dragged some 93 feet by the impact and smashed against the side of an unoccupied building.

The car was demolished. Police and firemen from Belmont called electric torches to cut away the wreckage and free the victim's body, but this proved unnecessary. When a tow truck lifted the car, Hountis' body fell to the tracks.

$300,000 Fire Damage

A three-alarm fire broke out last weekend in the office of the Williams and Burrows contracting firm at No. 10 California drive, Burlingame, in the midst of the city's "auto row."

The fire did damage estimated at more than $300,000.

The building, two offices of Williams & Burrows, and a bookstore operated by William Wreden were destroyed by the fire within the space of about 15 minutes. Thousands of dollars worth of rare books and manuscripts were lost in the blaze.

According to Axel Asplund, purchasing agent for Williams and Burrows, the fire began among papers in the map room of the contracting firm's office. Origin of the fire was not determined.

Trapped Five Hours

John Grant, 24, of 338 Hemlock avenue, Redwood City, was trapped in his wrecked auto, seriously injured, for five hours Sunday morning before being discovered and rescued by Redwood City officers.

He was found unconscious in his auto by two officers at 5:30 a.m. Grant later said he had started for San Francisco at about 12:30 a.m.

The accident occurred on Bayshore highway near Whipple avenue. Grant's sedan, for an unknown reason, swerved across the highway and crashed into a fence in front of the Highway Transport company.

A tow truck was called to pull the auto free from the fence before the unconscious victim could be removed.

He was taken to Community hospital with a fractured leg and severe lacerations.

Agriculture In Peril

The combination of a long, dry spell, and an early spring, followed by low temperatures, has placed San Mateo county's fruit crop in "serious jeopardy," Max J. Leonard, county agricultural commissioner, reported this week.

Fruit trees have blossomed from two weeks to a month early this year and the first form of of the fruit will begin to appear in a few days, a "critical" stage for the young fruit. Freezing temperatures during this stage could cause serious damage, the commissioner said.

Most of the county's fruit orchards are in the Portola-Woodside area. Trees in blossom at this time are cherries, apricots, pears and almonds.

"We are praying for rain," Leonard said. Unless it rains soon, growers will have to start extensive irrigation, the commissioner said.

5 Plucked From Surf

Two of seven men aboard a 36-foot pleasure boat capsized in the booming breakers north of Thornton Beach drowned last weekend, while five of the men were pulled from the disabled boat just after she sunk.

The two drowned were Donald R. Mood, 27, of San Pablo, and Otis L. Covalt, 25, of Rodeo.

Saved were five Richmond men.

Waves 25 and 30 feet high repeatedly smashed the boat where it lay aground within sight of the beach. A final wave split the boat into two parts just as the Coast Guard helicopter arrived.

Body Severed

Filipo Marzitto, 89, of 7 South Grant street, San Mateo, nearly blind and on his way home from his daily trip to mass at St. Matthew's Catholic church, was hit and killed by a northbound Southern Pacific commuter train at 7:45 a.m. Tuesday at the Second avenue railroad crossing in San Mateo.

Witnesses reported that the aged man, equipped with white walking cane, appeared confused and stopped directly in the path of the train which was slowing down to 15 miles an hour preparing to halt for passengers at the San Mateo depot.

The train struck Marzitto, 20 feet north of the crossing gates, knocking him under the third car which cut his body in half.

Polio Warning

A 14-year-old Burlingame boy is in an iron lung at Community hospital battling early stages of polio, and as a result 528 parents of students of Burlingame's McKinley school have been notified by school officials to be on the alert for symptoms of the disease in order that they might take precautionary steps should any be discovered.

Acting school superintendent Elsieann Irvin reported that the boy, Edward Roberts, 916 Oak avenue, who is president of the eighth grade class and treasurer of the student body, had not been in school since February 11, and for that reason other students probably were not brought into close contact.

Acting superintendent Mrs. Irvin made public the text of the letter sent to parents of McKinley school students.

"A case of polio has been reported in McKinley school, therefore we are asking you to watch your child carefully for any of the symptoms."

MY MAD WORLD

by Leonore Brewer

The past week has been particularly barren of activities, with a resultant dearth of ideas for the column. Pursued by the specter of the deadline, I have drifted around the house, occasionally turning over a book, thinking to find an idea thereunder, but raising nothing but small clouds of dust. My typewriter now has me cornered, and thus I sit, slowly rusting its keys with my tears while I enjoy the Metropolitan's broadcast of La Boheme.

Lest you think that this indicates a tender-hearted soul, let me hasten to disillusion you. As you will discover from subsequent columns, I am a hard-hearted wretch, who has cast many a scornful glance at the handkerchief-carrying matinee crowd in the movie palaces. A film need only be billed as "heart-warming" or "a woman's picture" to provide my derisive hoot. But La Boheme is different. More than any other opera it attains the quality of reality, and does so despite the language barrier.

This question of language provides one of the great controversies in opera. Whether operas should be sung in English or in their original language can provide sustenance for an endless number of future columns, but not today, particularly since the question will merely have academic interest, unless the yearly crisis of one of the world's great opera houses is met by the aid of its vast radio audience.

So, now you have it. This is another plea for money, which may find you completely out of patience, not to say money, for any cause however worthy. Even worse, you may have heard the story before, and I'm being redundant. But in the chance that you have intended to send a contribution, however small, but it has been trampled out of sight by the rush of daily activities, let me prod you. Send it today. The Metropolitan Opera Fund, New York 36, N. Y. They ask so little, and give so much. Not only the joy to be had during their season, free for the turning to KGO on Saturday at 11 a.m., but also the inspiration and goal they provide for hundreds of rising young artists.

You must excuse me now. We have reached the end of the last act. Rodolfo has knelt beside his dead love, and poured out his last heart-breaking, "Mimi! Mimi!" And I have used my last dry handkerchief.

NEWS NOTES FOR VETERANS

Question: As a World War II veteran, I bought a house with a GI loan. I had to sell it when I was called back into the armed forces after the Korean conflict began. Now that I have been discharged again, am I entitled to another GI loan to purchase?

Answer: It is possible for you to get new and full loan guarantee rights under the new Korean GI Bill. You should apply to the VA regional office for a new certificate of entitlement.

Q.: I have a service-connected disability which has been rated zero per cent by the VA. My ailment is bothering me, and I think I might be entitled to compensation payments. How do I go about applying?

A.: You should present evidence to the VA and request a review of your rating.

Q.: I'm planning to attend college under the Korean GI Bill. What happens if my entitlement runs out while I'm just part way through a school semester? Would I be allowed to continue?

A.: If your entitlement expires after the half-way mark of the semester, you would be permitted to complete that semester with Government financial assistance.

Q.: May I train under the Korean GI Bill in a school outside the United States?

A.: Yes, provided your course will be taken in an approved institution of higher learning.

KEEP HIGHWAYS HAPPY WAYS

Approximately 20,000 motor vehicles are added each month to the millions already on California's streets and highways. When you get into your automobile to drive anywhere, downtown or across state, make up your mind that you will have to contend with traffic delays and congestions. Resolve to be patient and courteous throughout the trip, says the California State Automobile Association, as this attitude will make for safer and more pleasant driving.

Library News

By Lorraine DeFanti

(Ed. note: Library news, written by acting librarian Lorraine DeFanti, will appear as a regular monthly feature in THE RECORD.)

BOOKMOBILE

A notice from the desk of Virginia Ross, assistant county librarian, announces that the new San Mateo county library bookmobile will begin rolling on a definite schedule beginning March 2, 1953. On that day, and every Monday thereafter, the bookmobile will make a scheduled stop in the Westlake shopping area from 3:30-5:30, and 6:00-8:00. All residents in the Westlake vicinity are encouraged to avail themselves of this county library service. The bookmobile will operate in conjunction with the Daly City public library, and all borrower's cards from the local library will be accepted in charging out books from the mobile unit. For residents in Broadmoor, the county library has scheduled a weekly stop on Thursdays. The location will be 87th and Washington streets, and hours for book circulation will be 4:30-6:00 and 6:30-8:00.

California Library Week

At a meeting called for March 5, 1953, at county library headquarters in Redwood City, the main topic for discussion among the assembled librarians will be forthcoming California Library Week. At this meeting definite plans for the observance of California's second annual Library Week will be formulated. Library Week will be observed throughout the state March 8-14, and all activities and programs will be designed to emphasize the slogan "Something for Everyone at Your Library."

Finding The Time To Read

How many times have you complained about not having the time to read? "I love to read, but I just don't have the time." Have you ever made this remark or heard others say it? Most likely you have. Here are a few suggestions made by Carma Zimmerman, state librarian, designed to help you find the time to open new avenues of reading pleasure in today's crowded daily schedule:

You'll have the time to read if you would:

Eliminate all unnecessary use of the telephone.

Use the radio and television only for the best programs.

Spend less time watching the neighbors.

Try reading one heavy and one light book at the same time—light for your tired hours, heavy for your fresh time.

Start the rest of your family reading by exposing them to carefully chosen books of special appeal to each.

Every winter read a few books aloud, each member of the family, including children, taking turns by chapters.

Read on the bus.

Take a book to the beauty shop or the barber shop.

Cut the Sunday book review page into one, two, or three column strips; fold, keep in your purse. Easy to handle at your lunch or coffee time.

New Books

Two of the many new books scheduled to appear soon on the shelves of the Daly City public library—books well worth "getting the time to read," are ANNAPURNA, by Maurice Herzog, and THE SIGN OF JONAS, by Thomas Merton. Annapurna, written by the leader of the French Expedition to the Himalayas, tells of the first heroic conquest of the highest mountain—26,493 ft.—ever climbed by men. Critics have claimed this book one of the great adventure classics of all time. It is also an enduring tribute to the spirit of man which is indestructible and against which nothing can prevail.

Another must on your reading list should be Thomas Merton's The Sign of Jonas. If you are one of the millions of readers who contributed to the record breaking success of Merton's earlier book, Seven Story Mountain, you won't want to miss this deep, beautiful and absorbing chronicle which depicts the daily life of a particular Trappist monk who is an unusually gifted writer, and whose previous life is familiar to many thousands.

Come to the Daly City public library soon and prove to yourself the veractiy of this year's California Library Slogan "Something For Everyone At Your Library."

OUR SCOUT NEWS

At the monthly meeting of the parent's advisory committee of Cub Pack 84 of Feb. 18, several changes in personnel were announced.

Preston R. Hix and Hartley Sater were welcomed as new committee members. Sater will be the new den father for Den 8 and assistant cubmaster.

I. Heskett will also be assistant cubmaster now.

The pack now has nine dens instead of eight. Den nine is under the leadership of Mrs. Joyce Leaf, the pack's newest den mother.

Ray Flanagan will be the new sponsor's representative replacing Al Toschi who resigned not long ago.

As a token of appreciation for the good work the den mothers have been doing, the committee voted them each a $5 dinner at a restaurant of thier choice.

Bud Christman's new Pack 84 baseball team has been formed and expects to give real competition to other cub teams in the West of Twin Peaks League when games start in March.

On March 6 at 7:30 p.m. a rally will be held at Aptos Junior high school (Upland Drive and Aptos avenue) to start the West of Twin Peaks League basketball series. Profession ball players will be on the program. All Cub Scouts, fathers, and mothers are invited.

Troop No. 31

Troop 31 celebrated its first birthday February 3.

Just one year ago their leaders organized the troop with eight girls and the troop now boasts a total of 17.

It meets in two sessions due to school and each session enjoyed a birthday party with Mrs. Sanford Vickers and Mrs. Roy Foster attending.

Each girl brought a guest and individual birthday cakes and ice cream were served.

PROF. BROWNING TO SPEAK AT NAZARENE CHURCH

Professor Charles J. Browning, Professor of Sociology at Pasadena College, will speak at the Daly City Church of the Nazarene, Sunday morning at 11 a.m., according to an announcement by Rev. Carlos Stepp, the pastor.

Mr. Browning is a graduate of the University of Southern California, and before coming to Pasadena College in 1950, was graduate research assistant in the University's Delinquency Control Institute.

He is appearing in the local church in connection with the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of Pasadena College, an accredited four-year school supported and controlled by the Church of the Nazarene.

The college is coeducational, and the student body numbers over seven hundred and fifty, representing more than twenty-five different denominations. Work is offered in all of the major fields of study.

CLOGGED MUFFLER

When an automobile engine develops a tendency to operate poorly, a clogged muffler may be causing the trouble, suggests the California State Automobile Association. A clogged muffler creates back pressure in the engine's exhaust system, which in turn causes poor engine performance.

Now Is Good Time For Delphiniums

One of the most useful plants available to the home gardener for background planting is the Pacific Hybrid Delphinium. Like a clear blue sky, its tall spikes with their masses of blue florets form a perfect setting for more brightly colored flowers. You will find some charming lavender and white Delphiniums, of course, but the usual colors are shades of blue and violet, according to the Bedding Plant Advisory Board.

A planting of Delphiniums is beautifully effective behind rose bushes, as long as the roses are not unusually tall growing or pillar types. And plant a row of rich colored pansies in front of your roses for contrasting trim.

Try building this curtain of color behind a bird bath or some other garden focal point: For the background use Delphiniums, with their dramatic blue spikes soaring up as high as five feet. In front of them, plant Iceland Poppies in pastel shades of red and yellow. Finish off with a border of English Primroses, with their bright rose, pinks and white flowers.

Pacific Hybrid Delphiniums are excellent background plants for almost any sunny flower bed. They also come in handy for other spots where you have a wall or fence to dress up. Set the plants out from flats now, 18" apart, and they will bloom late this spring and through the summer. But, because they are perennials, they should be planted soon to get flowers before fall.

San Mateo Woman Given Scholarship In Physical Therapy

Evelyn Frances Morrison of 1108 Palm avenue, San Mateo, has been awarded a scholarship in physical therapy under the nationwide professional training program sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, it was announced today by Carl E. Ward, chairman of the San Mateo county chapter of the March of Dimes organization.

Miss Morrison will study at the Uuniyersity of California Medical school, one of the institutions approved for this type of training by the American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education and Hospitals.

In announcing the award, Mr. Ward stated that Miss Morrison is one of 164 residents of California to receive a scholarship since the National Foundation began its physical therapy program in 1942 to combat a critical shortage of qualified personnel. The awards are made up recommendation of a committee from the profession.

The National Foundation has awarded 1,921 scholarships in this field to date. But it is estimated that there is an immediate need for 2,500 physical therapists to meet the increased demand for their professional services. There will be a need within the next ten years for at least 15,000 additional therapists. Since 1952 the organization has allocated more than $2,600,000 in March of Dimes funds to support the physical therapy program.

Although physical therapists trained under the National Foundation program are not required to confine their work to the treatment of infantile paralysis, many of them are employed in that field. Others are available for polio epidemic emergencies.

INDIANS TROUNCE RIVALS 60 to 37; 30s ARE EDGED OUT

Jefferson high's northern division PAL varsity basketball champs racked up an easy victory over South San Francisco last Friday, 60 to 37, to wind up the regular league play with 10 victories, no defeats.

The South San Franciscans came through in final seconds to capture the lightweight contest, 45 to 44.

Coach Mike Orlich's hoopsters started slowly, and the game was deadlocked at 8 all at the end of the first period.

But the Jeffs jumped to a 24-18 half-time lead, and stretched it to a 36-24 lead at the end of the third period. From there on it was the Indians all the way, led by Forward Larry Blanchard who scored 20 points for the evening.

The Jeff lightweights had a 10-point lead going into the final quarter, but the Warriors, behind an eight-point spree by Ralph Garcia, forged to within one point and then went ahead when Garcia tanked the final bucket.

SPEED BLURS VISION

About ninety per cent of the decisions and the actions of all drivers are based upon what they see. Clear vision, therefore, is a "must" for safe driving. It takes time to see and additional time to react. Fast driving reduces clarity of vision and induces ocular fatigue. The California State Automobile Association urges motorists always to drive at a reasonable speed to "see an accident" in time to prevent it.

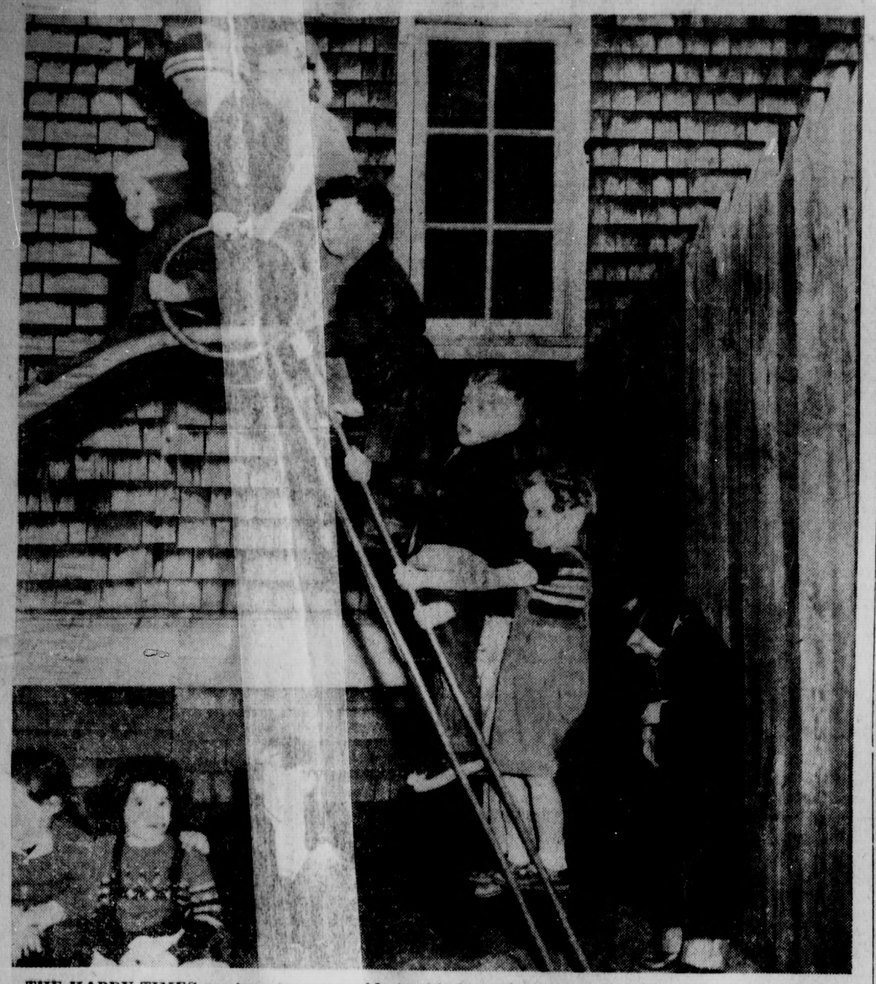
Children, Parents Both Take Part In Activities At School



THE HAPPY TIMES are in evidence at the Village Play school, a cooperative nursery that accommodates 35 youngsters from two years old to kindergarten age. Supervision of the children is done by the mothers, who spend one morning a week at the nursery. The staff of the school has only one paid member. Maintenance work is done by fathers of children attending the school.

HAVEN FOR WEE ONES

Ma, Pa, Kids Spend Time At Play School

At least one morning a week, some 30 local mothers are doing internship in the science of bringing up junior.

The scene of the project is the Village play school, located at the Colma community center.

Here, more than 30 children are kept under parental surveillance at a coperative nursery, one of the first of its type in the area.

The mothers whose children stay at the nursery in the mornings pay only $7 a month for the service, but in turn take their stint at keeping the little ones safe and sound.

First-Hand Study

The plan not only takes much of the burden off busy mothers, but also gives them opportunity for first-hand study of child management.

In addition to their regular time at the nursery, the mothers attend a weekly class, sponsored by the high school board of education. At these sessions noted speakers on psychology, psychiatry and medicine give lectures and panel discusions and book reviews are held.

Although the cooperative nursery is designed primarily to provide a place for busy mothers to keep their children, its instructional value to the parents is such that many often go into nursery school work full time.

Started Year Ago

The idea had its genesis a little more than a year ago. Mrs. Merritt Beckerman, who lives at 1852 Sweetwood drive, thought that such a school was needed here. She had previously worked at a similar type operation in Berkeley and knew that with enough help the project could be begun here.

She rallied enough parents to her aid, publicized the nursery, and before long the idea became a reality. At present the nursery is at its capacity. A total of 35 children are enrolled, while the school board sets the limit of attendance at 30.

Mrs. Beckerman, who is assistant teacher, explained that they are allowed to enroll more because average daily attendance is never at the full enrollment figure.

Kept in Groups

The children are kept in two groups, for ease in handling. The younger group, from two years, six months to three years, nine months, remain inside the nursery in the early morning.

The "older" children, from three years, nine months, to kindergarten age, play outside from 8:45 a.m. to about 10:15 a.m. Then the tinier tots take over the playground, while the others go inside until 11:45 a.m., when the nursery closes.

Play Facilities

A myriad of outdoor equipment is on hand to delight the younger set. There are monkey bars, a jungle jim, a trapeeze, swings, a rocking boat, jumping boards and many toys for imaginative play.

Of course, sometimes there's bumped shins and minor-scale wars over who gets what . . . but that's the job of management the parents must tend to.

Inside the nursery the children are treated to fruit juice and crackers at 10 a.m. This accounts for the $7 monthly fee the parents pay.

No members of the nursery receive pay for their services, with the exception of Mrs. Dorothy Malone, head teacher, who is hired by the school board.

Outside revenue, besides money appropriated by the school board, is gained through barn dances and other activities.

Fathers' Day

Maintenance of the nursery doesn't pose too great a problem. The fathers also get into the act. On weekends, or whenever possible, fathers of the children attending the nursery wield the hammer and saw to keep the place in shinshape—all on their own time.

The school doesn't boast a large "alumni" following at present, but come next fall, some dozen children will "graduate" to go out into the world of kindergarten, while a new crop of "freshmen" will take their place.

YOUR COUNTY'S BUSINESS

The county planning commission has proposed what they believe to be a partial solution to a perplexing problem.

Taking action against violators of the various county planning, building and zoning ordinances has been a particularly hard one, when the violator has unknowingly purchased a property on which a violation exists.

The proposal to reduce the problem, suggested by supervisor of this district, Thomas J. Callan, is to ask title companies to submit to the planning commission maps of all property transactions handled by the companies. The commission would then have opportunity to forewarn the buyer of any violations.

Heretofore property owners found to be in violation of a county ordinance have been cited to appear before the commission. Normally the violations are referred to the board of supervisors, which in turn requests the district attorney to take action against the violators.

Under Callan's plan, much of the involvement of dispensing cases of unbeknowing violators might be done away with, and the buyers could be forewarned in off-color transactions.
